MISHA DICHTER

Perhaps once in a decade does a young artist burst upon the musical scene with special brilliance. One of these is Misha Dichter, the young pianist whose electrifying performances won him second place in Russia's 1966 International Tchaikowsky Piano Competition and first place in the hearts of music lovers in Russia and the United States. His appearance with the Boston Symphony at Tanglewood was viewed by a television audience of millions, and his schedule this season includes performances with the Boston Symphony and Philadelphia orchestras.
