New Churches In Rochester

New Church of St. John the Evangelist
Dedicated June 13, 1926.

New Catholic Churches are being added to Catholic Rochester and while several are under construction, the new Church of St. John the Evangelist on Humbolt street was dedicated in June by Bishop Thomas F. Hickey. The new building is of brick and Norristone and is of the English gothic type of architecture. A feature of the new edifice will be found in the windows, the glass designs in which are represented ten different virtues. Four of the completed windows already have been installed. Frank Frey was the architect.

The church is not yet completed, as the plans provide for an edifice which will be one-third larger than the present size and the additional portion is to be constructed later. The new building will enable Father Sullivan, the rector, to convert the former church in Humbolt street into a complete school building.

The estimate cost of the new Sacred Heart Church, which is of English Gothic architecture, is said to be about $300,000 by the pastor, the Rev. George V. Burns. The site is on the northeast corner of Flower City park and Primrose street.

New Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help

The parish of Our Lady of Perpetual Help was organized by the present rector, the Rev. John P. Schellhorn, 22 years ago. Prior to that time Father Schellhorn had been for eight years assistant pastor of St. Michael's Church. Bishop McQuaid, realizing the rapid growth of the northeastern section of the city and seeing the need of a Catholic parish in the lower Joseph avenue section, conferred with the Rev. Mathias J. Hargather and then delegated Father Schellhorn to take up the task of developing the new parish, the organization of which was effected on April 24, 1904.

Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church is one of the most flourishing parishes in the diocese of Rochester.

The exterior of the new church, erected in Joseph avenue, near Norton street, is in Italian renaissance architecture, with cream shade pressed brick and trimmed with terra cotta and cast stone. It has a frontage of 82 feet in Joseph avenue and a depth of 156 feet. In a niche at the apex on the front wall is a picture of the madonna in polychrome colors in faience tile with fire gild lustrous gold glaze. Beneath this inset is an inscription in a terra cotta panel, with the words: "Our Lady of Perpetual Help."
