

Chesbrough's Campaign for $985,000

As the time for launching the local wing of the fund-raising movement for Chesbrough College approaches, campaign headquarters is increasingly busy. Plans are progressing for building a corps of volunteer workers to approach the people of Rochester in behalf of the school, and it is hoped that by the latter half of November, when the intensive stage in the Rochester section of the movement is launched, a strong team organization will be ready for action. Already several dozen Rochesterians and dwellers in nearby towns have shown interest in Chesbrough's aspirations.

The return of President G. W. Garlock, who has been compelled to absent himself from the scene for a short time on account of his recent illness, is expected to accelerate greatly the organization work. Mr. Garlock's strong personality, it is believed will win many recruits to the cause and thus will forward the work of campaign headquarters in the most effective way. He of all men, it is felt, is equipped to enlist the vigorous cooperation of leading business and professional men in Rochester, and to convince them that Chesbrough is a Rochester asset just as surely as any other philanthropic institution in the metropolitan district.

It is not alone in Rochester that the organization work is carried on. For several weeks the Alumni Organizer, Clarence Courtney Barber, has been visiting strategic points in New York and Pennsylvania, holding conferences with leading alumni and recruiting as many former students as possible in Chesbrough's service. Visits to alumni have been made as far west as Youngstown, Ohio, and as far east as Saratoga Springs. Organizer Barber's work will take him into New England, Maryland, West Virginia, the District of Columbia and Ontario, as well as Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey.

In campaign headquarters, A. H. Grinstead, team organizer, is establishing contacts with the prospective captains and other volunteer workers in Rochester and its environs. This is an important phase of the campaign preparation, and President Garlock feels that it is in good hands.

Generous publicity has been given to Chesbrough and its fund-raising movement not only by the daily papers in Rochester, but also by dailies and weeklies in other cities, towns and villages. The story of the school's origin, the development through the past sixty years, its present service to the student body, the alumni, the community, the nation and mankind at large, has been broadcast in print, has been read by tens of thousands of persons.

An earnest and interested friend of the school in Rochester is the Reverend Bardette N. Miner, pastor of the First Free Methodist Church in North Union street. Mr. Miner has attended all the preliminary conferences of the initial group active in pushing the preparatory work and has announced his willingness to serve the school in every way consistent with his duties to his own flock. As he is held in high esteem by many leading citizens it is thought Mr. Miner will prove a valuable asset when the intensive stage of the campaign is launched.

Another tower of strength in the movement is expected to be the Reverend A. D. Zahniser, a bishop of the Free Methodist Church. Bishop Zahniser weeks ago visited North Chili on his way to a conference at Chetek, Wisconsin, and at that time not only uttered good wishes to President Garlock but also showed an unmistakable intent to aid the campaign with all the resources at his command. This leading divine intends to return to Rochester at his early opportunity and take an active part in the campaign preparation.

In campaign headquarters, a small but efficient force of typists and filers is preparing the card index list of probable contributors in Rochester and elsewhere. In this campaign, there will be no haphazard solicitation. Each volunteer worker will choose for himself the names of the persons whom he is willing to approach. When a volunteer has selected a name, that prospect is his exclusively.

Although not more than $200,000 will be sought from the people of Rochester, the entire amount needed by Chesbrough is $985,000. It is hoped that in addition to the $200,000 from Rochester, $200,000 will come from the General Education Board or some other foundation, $200,000 from the Free Methodist Churches in Chesbrough's zone of service, $85,000 from the alumni and $300,000 from outside philanthropists.

This $985,000 is destined for the following purposes:

Adella P. Carpenter Memorial Building	$150,000
New Administration Building	100,000
New Dormitory for Boys	100,000
Reclamation of Old Buildings	25,000
Equipment of New Buildings	15,000

Central Heating Plant	15,000
New Water Supply System	15,000
Freeing the School from Debt	20,000
Special Scholarship Endowment Fund	100,000
Addition to General Endowment Fund	430,000

"Our whole problem is the question of manpower," said Frederick Courtney Barber of One Madison Avenue, New York, director of the campaign, in an interview in headquarters, "Rochester has the $200,000 which President Garlock hopes to obtain from this city. The churches undoubtedly can give $200,000. A gift of $200,000 from the General Educational Board would be a quite modest expression of its approval. There is no question the alumni can contribute $85,000. It is certain that in various parts of the country there are philanthropists who can subscribe the remaining $300,000. Our task is to reach the people who have the money which Chesbrough needs and to present the school's case to them in such a way as to stir their generosity. This can be done only through volunteer workers, organized in the accepted way. Chesbrough's story has been told, and when it begins functioning as a senior college with power to grant degrees, there is no question in my mind that it will be recognized as one of Rochester's most desirable assets. Our problem, therefore, is manpower. This is the time for all good men and true—and women too—to come to the aid of the school."

PRESIDENT GARLOCK ILL.

During the night of September 19, President Garlock suffered a severe attack of acute indigestion. This was followed during the next two weeks by several minor attacks which kept him confined to his bed. The doctor pronounced his condition the result of overwork and nerve exhaustion accompanied by low blood pressure, and ordered a complete rest away from the scenes of his work and activities. The many friends of our President will be glad to know that there is no permanent organic impairment, and that a few weeks of much needed rest and relaxation is expected to restore him to his work.

At present writing he is spending a few weeks in the Canadian woods to recuperate. We miss him greatly from among us, and feel that God will surely hear and answer the many prayers that daily ascend in his behalf.

THE SILENT PARTNER.

We look at the man and praise the work he is doing—sacrificing time and money, working night and day that others may benefit, trying to advance the higher principles of life and make a place where young people may come and receive a christian education.

It is right that we should extol him, but there is another also to whom tribute is due. Mrs. Garlock has been behind the scene, as it were, praying, advising, and working to the end that our lives as students might be more pleasant and profitable. She has been the mainstay throughout the years of President Garlock's training period as a student. She has stood faithfully by, through every trying circumstance.

We feel that He who weighs our lives and marks our destinies will grant her a portion far beyond our meager comprehension — will her sacrifice remember, will her loving deeds repay.

REVIVAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

The regular fall revival meeting, from October 9 to 23, will be conducted by Rev. Claude A. Watson, District Elder of the Southern Californian conference. Rev. Watson is a member of the General Educational Board and comes to Chesbro at the close of the educational meeting in Chicago.

REGISTRATION

September thirteenth was registration day at Chesbro. The registration was indeed very large, about 135 including both the high school and college departments. Only a few of the old students returned but we have many new ones to take their places. We feel that with this student body and this year Chesbro will take a large stride upward on its ladder of development.

THE COLLEGE DEPARTMENT.

When High School days are over and there are nothing but memories left and we have a desire for greater things and a higher education then we can turn with thankful hearts to the College Department. Although we can only offer two years of college work we are looking ahead for brighter and better things.

There are registered so far in our College Department twenty-nine students which is not quite as large an enrollment as that of last year. The majority of the College Freshmen are new students but they are an intelligent and peppy looking crowd and we feel sure that they will not permit the College Department to slide or become dead. The College Sophomores are not as many in numbers this year as they (The College Freshman) were last year, but they still retain those qualities which has made their Class so prominent in the past.

I am sure that with two such fine classes having all the talents and qualities necessary to success that the A. M. Chesbrough Seminary will have every reason this year to be proud of her College Department.

Old Roberts' Homestead.

The old home of Bishop B. H. Roberts still stands, a sacred monument to Free Methodism and 'Chili Seminary.' President Garlock purchased the homestead last May. On an elevation, it stands surrounded by beautiful trees, overlooking the school grounds and buildings. Very fitting it is that this should again become the home of the president of Chesbro who is so vitally interested in Christian education for our young people.

For a number of years the place has been much neglected, making necessary extensive repairs and alterations. These, and others in mind still to be made, will make this home an attractive spot, and fitting setting for the president of our eastern college.

Already Mrs. Garlock has transformed the place with her beautiful flowers, and we can out guess what a bower it will become when she has had opportunity to combine its possibilities with her love of nature and wonderful knack of making things grow and bloom.

A guide was showing a woman through an engine foundry. He stopped and said "This is where they make locomotive boilers." "What! do they boil the locomotives for?" "To make the engine tender!"

MRS. GARLOCK AND MISS MOORE ATTEND CONFERENCES.

Owing to the continued illness of President Garlock, it was necessary for Mrs. Garlock to complete his round of conferences. Mrs. Garlock was accompanied and assisted by Miss Moore. At both the Oil City and the Pittsburg Conferences they were most kindly received, and in the educational meetings were aided by the pastors and by trustees of Chesbrough.

At the Oil City Conference Mrs. Garlock also gave a talk on the Women's Mission Study book.

THE CONVOCATION ADDRESS

Wednesday, September the fourteenth, at eight forty-five found one hundred or more students, twenty visitors about fourteen faculty members assembled for the first chapel service of the year or Convocation address. The service was opened by singing "Conquering Now and Still to Conquer," which was followed by the scripture reading Hebrews the second chapter, read by Rev. Smith of Perry, N. Y. Professor Layman lead in prayer after which President Garlock introduced the speaker of the hour Rev Cunningham, district elder of Rochester dist.

Rev. Cunningham took for his subject "Success" and I will try to give an exact yet brief interpretation of it.

What is success? It is to have a purpose and then attain to it.

Who may succeed? Any one who has common sense and a set purpose. Success does not depend on our talents, but sticking to and having a purpose is what counts. A man or a woman is not made in a day. Many surmount all handicaps and make a glorious success in life. "Go thou and do likewise," like Joseph, David, Abraham Lincoln, and Booker T. Washington. Keep your mind set to succeed and you are sure to do it.

How may this may be done? Have an aim like Demosthenes, set your purpose aright and press on. Prepare yourself for your right place and fill it. "A knowledge of our ignorance is the doorstep to the temple of wisdom." Do not think that you know more than the teachers for they can always teach you something. Humility is one great secret to success. Keep clean, healthy bodies and minds; for referance read Philippians 4:8. Keep the rules of the school, for they are safety rules and will be a blessing to you if you keep them. Do not take advice from students but go to your superiors. Choose right companions and take your stand for the right; it always helps others. In conclusion "the greatest safeguard is to take the Son of God as your friend and companion. Live not only to be a success in this life but live to be crowned as such in the life to come."

President followed by a very good exhortation for the old students to set the example for the new one and to start in by taking things to heart. Also I add in conclusion, let each one of us make A. M. Chesbrough Junior College and school this year, by each one of us individually living up to the two things that president said make a school—discipline and scholarship.

We closed by singing the school song and all students then marching around to shake hands with the faculty.

CHESBRO'S FACULTY

Professor George W. Garlock, of Greenville College, will remain as president and will teach the classes in economics. Professor George M. Layman, a graduate of Miami University and McCormick Theological Seminary, will be instructor in Latin and Greek, and the classes in education will be taught by Prof. F. D. Simons, of New York and Columbia Universities.

Professor Earnest T. Staines, of Greenville College, will instruct the classes in science and agriculture. Rev. J. Eslie Beeson, of Greenville College, has been engaged as head of the theological department and will be dean of men. The classes in French will be taught by Miss Anna Haynes, of the University of Rochester, who was a member of the faculty last year. The business department which is one of the most popular in the school, will again be under the direction of Lillian T. Beeson, a graduate of Bryant Stratton Business College.

Berton W. Brown, a graduate of Syracuse University Law School, will give a series of lectures on constitutional and commercial law, and Mabel M. Layman, of Kansas State Teachers' College, will be in charge of the junior high school department. Mrs. Amanda M. Garlock will teach the classes in missionary training. Miss Esther Westacott, a graduate of Greenville College School of Music, will be head of the vocal and instrumental music departments. Miss Celida Howard, a graduate of Chesbrough Seminary and Keuka College, will be dean of women.

J. M. Worboys will be superintendent of the school grounds, and E. J. Leonard will be in charge of the 200 acre seminary farm, where the practical agricultural work will be done.

Miss Nana Southworth, college class '23 attended summer school at Middlebury, Vt. She is teaching again at Sodus.

John O'Brien, Edgar Rose, Charles Lake and Adrian Buyse are attending the University of Rochester.

Benjamin Austin is attending Mechanics Institute.

Miss Consuela Newton is teaching music and art at Indian Lake, N. Y.

In Genesee Conference this year eight young men, who are alumni or former students of the last five years, took work. This does not include those who have attended Chesbro before that time.

Born—September 20, to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Balch of Sayre, Pa., a daughter, Jean Adelaide.

CHESBROUGH FIRE DEPARTMENT ORGANIZES.

On Monday, September 19, the husky lads who constitute the Fire Squad at Chesbro organized and elected the following officers: Chief, Charles Naish; Captain, Francis Gilmore; First Lieutenant, Lavern Reinhold; Second Lieutenant, Clark Wickline; Faculty Advisor, Prof. J. E. Beeson.

The chemical engine, in charge of Lavern Reinhold, is manned by the following boys: Charles Gilmore, Wilbert Shorb, Mr. Yale, Paul Miner, George Elgin, Randolph Randlett and Wesley Holliday. The Hand extinguisher group, in charge of Clark Wickline, is comprised of the two Roushey brothers, Emerson Mason, Samuel Hollis, Burdette

Simpson and Russell Triller.

One or more practise alarms and drills will be conducted to insure the efficiency of the fire-fighters, and familiarize the members of the fire department with the correct method of procedure. Also with the end in view of enlarging and strengthening the fire fighting equipment, a program of entertainment will be given by the members of the Fire Department, the money derived therefrom going towards the equipment of a fire truck with ladders and chemical tanks.

Between two evils some folks cannot distinguish any difference, so they choose them both.

RECEPTION.

At Cox Hall on the 20th of September, was held a reception for the purpose of welcoming the new students of the Chesbro Seminary and Junior College. All those present felt the sincerity and earnestness of the welcome address delivered by Clarke Wickline in which he showed the necessity of devoting ourselves earnestly and completely to whatever task we undertake and of adopting the pursuit of success and holding fast to a high and noble purpose. The great success in life consists in bending all our efforts to that which we engage. In response to this Miss Ann Orris from Pittsburg, Penn., representing the new members of the student body acknowledged her appreciation of the kind manner in which they were received and assured the audience of the keen interest already aroused in the hearts of the new comers and of their pledge of loyalty and a desire to keep the standard of Chesbro high.

Other interesting numbers of the program were given and were enjoyed by all, after which light refreshments were served.

Many of the townfolk were present, a fact which is inspiring to us for we appreciate their interest and moral support in the heights we aim to attain.

Though our school reception can last for but one evening we trust and believe their meaning of earnest and ardent endeavor will be carved in our memories for the benefit of days to come.

FORMER STUDENTS BECOME LIFE PARTNERS.

THAYER-BARRINGER.

On August 29th Grace Barringer of East Liverpool, Ohio and Thurber Thayer of Akron, N. Y., were united in marriage at the home of the bride. Both were students at A. M. C. S. Miss Barringer graduating from the academic department in 1925 and Mr. Thayer from the college department at the same time. They are to reside at Muberry Grove, Ill., where Mr. Thayer is principal of the high school. Their many friends wish them much happiness in their new adventure.

KRECKMAN-BLOOD.

The marriage of Miss Flora Blood of Jamestown, N. Y., and Mr. Bennett Kreckman of Rochester, N. Y., took place at the home of the bride Friday evening, September 2nd, at 5 o'clock. Rev. B. N. Miner of Rochester performed the ceremony. Both are former students of Chesbrough Seminary and their many student friends wish them all the luck in the world.

DEATH OF PROMINENT ALUMNUS.

President Eldon Grant Burritt was born September 9, 1868, on the Burritt homestead farm near Parma Center, New York. He died August 26, 1927, in Clifton Springs Sanitarium, Clifton Springs, New York.

He was for many years a student at Chesbrough from which he was graduated in 1887. This last June he attended the fortieth anniversary of his graduation. His years at Chesbrough were happy years which he loved to recall. Professor Benson Howard Roberts recalls that as a student he was a quiet unassuming boy, with a pleasant, thoughtful air, faithful and careful in his preparation of assigned lessons. He was a successful student, a source of gratification to his teachers and by his pleasant, courteous ways he won the respect and love of his fellow students.

He worked his way through the University of Rochester from which he was graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1891. Continuing postgraduate work, he was granted the degree of Master of Arts in 1893.

After having been associated with various educational institutions, he was elected president of Greenville College and assumed his duties February 1, 1908, which office he held until his death. He assumed very heavy burdens, under the long continued strain his strength finally gave way. Professor Roberts rightly states that "Such sacrifice of valuable men is as needless as it is lamentable and preventable." Such men as President Burritt are an asset to their church, to the community, to their profession. Their death is a loss to each.

The straight and narrow path is plenty wide enough for its traffic. At a grade crossing a fool and his motor are soon parted.

FACULTY MEMBERS ENGAGE IN VARIOUS PURSUITS DURING SUMMER.

President and Mrs. Garlock moved into their new residence, the former Roberts' homestead. President Garlock was intensively engaged in the work of the present Chesbro' campaign.

At the Pleasantville camp meeting Mrs. Garlock was engaged to teach the Mission Study class which met each day.

Professor and Mrs. Layman took a motor trip through Ohio and Pennsylvania, and spent an enjoyable time vacation at Winona Lake, Indiana, where their son, Clarence, attended a Boy's Camp.

Miss Anna Haynes, instructor in French, took graduate work at Middlebury College, an exclusive French School, at Middlebury, Vermont.

Miss Olive Moore, Secretary to President Garlock, was present at a number of camp meetings during the summer in the interest of the Seminary.

Professor Beeson did graduate work in Psychology at the University of Rochester and at the same time carried on his pastorate at Parma Center. Mrs. Beeson was with him until called by the illness of her sister, to Buffalo, where she remained until school opened.

Professor and Mrs. Staines spent a part of their summer traveling in the northern part of the state, visiting the Thousand Islands and the Adirondacks. They also took a trip to Oil City, Pa.

Mrs. Moyer was at her home in North Chili most of the vacation. During the summer she visited at different points in the southern part of the state and in Pennsylvania, calling on Miss Martha Humelsine, a former student, at Pittsburg.

Miss Esther Westacott studied voice at Chautauqua, N. Y., with Horatio Connell, a noted Philadelphia teacher.

Following a leave of absence for graduate study Miss Sager returned to us this year with her Master's degree, granted in June by the University of Syracuse.

Miss Howard returned as Dean of Women and Physical Instructor. Miss Howard was graduated in June from Keuka College with the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

SCHOOL MATES OF YESTERDAY.

There are several members of the graduating class of last June and former students who are known to many of the young people and friends of our school. No doubt, many of these who are not intimately acquainted with these students will be interested to know what they are doing this year.

Harold McNeese is working with his father in new Bristol, Pa., Richard Wing, Mildred Hill, Alice Pool and Lawrence Seeley are attending Houghton College, Willetta Spotts is teaching school at Adams Basin, Helen Balch is helping her father on his charge, Rodney Shearer is attending the University of New York, Havereth Owlett is teaching school in Gerry, N. Y., Albert Reining is attending Greenville College, Theodore Steucke is back at Chesbro as physical instructor and will also take subjects in the University of Rochester, Miss Doris McColl is at Cornell.

HELLO, EVERYBODY!

We are the Junior class, studious and alert. Our appearance this time is just to introduce ourselves and assure you that you can expect to hear from us frequently.

Fifteen students have registered as Juniors. Though we be few in number we are not disheartened but are striving to reach the top. We are convinced that every member of our class is wide awake and ambitious, willing and ready to do his best to boast every interest at Chesbro.

Go about your work with an air of resignation and maybe the boss will ask for it.

Nobody ever got the reputation for being stingy—for keeping his word.

Farewell to Former College Freshmen President

"To meet, to love and then to part is the sad, sad tale of a school mates heart."

To show Rodney Shearer that we appreciated his friendship and wished him good luck as he leaves us, about 25 friends and schoolmates met in Hutchings' woods on Saturday, September 10, to bid him farewell in the form of a surprise steak roast and picnic supper. The affair was a great success and every one had an enjoyable time.

After supper Hubert Cilly was master of ceremonies and expressed for us all our regret because of Rod's leaving. We had also a number of entertaining features among them, recitations by Miriam Thurber and Paul Smith and a selection from "Ye ole Male Quartet." Rod will be greatly missed at school this year. He was president of the college Freshman class last year and was one of the players on the Chesbro school basket ball team. We wish him success in his new field of endeavor.

COLLEGE SOPHOMORES TAKE TO THE WOODS.

The members of the college sophomore class staged the first class affair of the school year by having a feed in Hutchings' woods, Wednesday evening, September 14, following an organization meeting at which the officers for the school year were elected. Charles Nash was elected President, Fred House, vice-president, Beulah Stickney, secretary and treasurer, Wesley Holliday, cheerleader and Miss R. Olive Moore, honorary member. Some members of the class of 1927, who were remaining in school for post-graduate courses were voted active honorary memberships.

The supper was composed of fried ham and eggs, roasted sweet potatoes, pickles in abundance, cheese, coffee and cookies. The big swing afforded much fun before and after supper. "Wes" Holliday was administered a chastisement of twenty-and-one stripes to commemorate his twenty-first birthday. It is needless to add that all had a good time, for the class of '28 always "cuts 'er high, wide, and fancy."

NEW GIRLS ENTERTAINED

On Wednesday evening, September the 14th, the new girls were entertained by the old girls in Maple Wood Park, better known as Hutchings Woods. The girls, led by Mary Butts, meandered down the road, through lanes, and across the fields and at last came to the southern edge of the woods. Here we found the remains of an old fire place, where, under the direction of Mrs. Beeson, and other members of the faculty, a fire was built, sticks were gotten and then the fun began. And with all we wanted to eat, and the privilege of eating what and how we pleased, why shouldn't we have a good time. At dusk, we started back, with the feeling that the old girls were what we considered as "pretty good sports."
